

SEXUAL EXPLOITATION EARLY INTERVENTION TRAINING

Sexual exploitation is a form of sexual abuse, in which a young person is groomed or forced into taking part in some form of sexual activity.

Young people from any background can be sexually exploited . Boys and young men are as much at risk of being sexually abused as girls and young women.

In all cases, those sexually exploiting a child or young person will have power over them by virtue of their age, gender, intellect, physical strength and/or economic or other resources .

All young people may be at risk – whether it's due to lack of confidence and experience in the online world, or high exposure due to increased accessibility.

Child sexual exploitation can happen in person but can also occur through the use of technology.

Young people access the internet through a variety of means and in particular there is growth in the use of mobile technology.

Training young people on the safe use of technology should include raising awareness on Sexual Exploitation and how to respond if they are concerned about their own or others' safety.

Children who have been sexually abused may suffer feelings of guilt and shame, which can dramatically affect their lives as adults. They may experience long-term emotional and psychological problems and difficulties in forming relationships later in life.

Many have low self esteem, suffer from depression, self harm and often do not know how to show or receive affection without acting sexually.

Having participated in these workshops young people will be able to identify the grooming tactics that perpetrators use to gain their trust.

Awareness raising sessions can also be delivered to staff and parents / carers.

For more information or to discuss booking workshops please e-mail:

info@se-elt.com

SEXUAL EXPLOITATION EARLY INTERVENTION TRAINING

Sexual exploitation is a form of sexual abuse, in which a young person is groomed or forced into taking part in some form of sexual activity.

Young people from any background can be sexually exploited . Boys and young men are as much at risk of being sexually abused as girls and young women.

In all cases, those sexually exploiting a child or young person will have power over them by virtue of their age, gender, intellect, physical strength and/or economic or other resources .

All young people may be at risk – whether it's due to lack of confidence and experience in the online world, or high exposure due to increased accessibility.

Child sexual exploitation can happen in person but can also occur through the use of technology.

Young people access the internet through a variety of means and in particular there is growth in the use of mobile technology.

Training young people on the safe use of technology should include raising awareness on Sexual Exploitation and how to respond if they are concerned about their own or others' safety.

Children who have been sexually abused may suffer feelings of guilt and shame, which can dramatically affect their lives as adults. They may experience long-term emotional and psychological problems and difficulties in forming relationships later in life.

Many have low self esteem, suffer from depression, self harm and often do not know how to show or receive affection without acting sexually.

Having participated in these workshops young people will be able to identify the grooming tactics that perpetrators use to gain their trust.

Awareness raising sessions can also be delivered to staff and parents / carers.

For more information or to discuss booking workshops please e-mail:

info@se-eit.com

Sexual Exploitation

Early Intervention Training

SEKIT workshops facilitate learning by creating meaningful discussion between young people on the issues surrounding sexual abuse and sexual exploitation.

The age appropriate workshops delivered to S1 through to S6 classes educate young people to identify features of a sexually exploitative friendship or relationship in contrast with the development of a healthy relationship.

For victims, the pain of their ordeal and fear that they will not be believed means they are often scared to come forward.

SEKIT gives young people clear information on how to access support and report abuse.

SEKIT workshops tackle a range of sensitive issues including:

- Grooming
- Sexual abuse
- Internet abuse/safety
- Sexting
- Body Image
- Power and Control
- Blackmail and Coercion
- Peer Pressure
- Healthy & non Healthy Relationships
- Alcohol & Drugs in relation to Sex and Consent
- Pornography
- Homophobic Bullying
- Victim Blaming
- How to report Abuse
- Where / how to seek support.

Sexual Exploitation Early Intervention

Training

Preventing

Sexual Exploitation through Education

SEKIT

info@se-eit.com

E-mail: info@se-eit.com